Never let you go

"Hiiiiiiicup. Wake up!" Jackson shouted into the sleeping boy's ear, making him roll off the sofa in shock.

"Jack! You little ass hole!" Henrik 'Hiccup' Horrendous Haddock murmured. He wasn't a morning person. At all. "What's the time?"

"11." Jackson answered simply. Hiccup shot up, picked up his clothes, and ran to the bathroom to get changed.

He and Jackson had a sleepover that night, watching movies and throwing popcorn at each other's faces. As soon as Hiccup locked the door, he slipped out of his top and pants, and pulled on his skinny black jeans, a simple black shirt, his fashionable green camo jacket, and his dark boots. He looked at his reflection in the mirror and sighed. "Why I have to be so damn ugly!" He whispered to himself. He then looked at his pale wrists and clenched his fists. "Then there's you little fuckers I have to cover up!" The freckled boy mumbled. He quickly pulled down his jacket sleeves as he heard a knock on the door.

"Hic? You ready yet?" A male voice asked from the other side of the door. Hiccup opened it to see Jackson leaning against the wall, wearing his paramore tank top, black skinny jeans, ripped doc martens, and all his piercings. He had his snakebites in, and all his ear piercings. "Ready to go?" Hiccup smiled and nodded as they left the house.

"So, where exactly are you taking me?" Hiccup asked when the two started to walk through the nearby forest. Jack smirked and crossed his arms,

"You'll just have to wait and see."
